

A photograph showing a surveying instrument, possibly a total station or theodolite, mounted on a wooden table. The instrument is positioned on a white, corrugated metal surface. The table is made of dark wood. A white label is placed on the table in front of the instrument. The background shows an outdoor setting with a dirt path, trees, and a building in the distance.

RISCO
RWX7405