

A black, rectangular electronic device, possibly a power supply or a small computer component, is shown from a top-down perspective. The device has a matte finish and several circular indentations or ports on its surface. A white rectangular label with the text "FCC text" is centered on the device. A thin, dark blue or black cable is attached to the left side of the device and extends downwards.

FCC text