801660B Model Differences
801660B Label and Location

All the models in the family use a case with the same basic material and dimensions. Other than case color differences, attachment materials, model number and regulatory labelling (see referenced exhibits to this filing), the model external views are identical and are shown below.

Note models 802201B-TAB and 802700B-TAB use different adhesive attachment than the other models, to support a tamper-proof function, but the cases are identical in size and material to the other models.
