

Circuit Description

74501 (transmitter)

This product uses two 12 volt DC (batteries) to power the internal circuitry. This power is controlled by a programmable encoder which in turn sends signals to a local oscillator (433.92 Mhz) when the transmitters buttons are activated. The oscillator sends its output to a power amplifier which amplifies the signal and sends it to the antenna that is an integral part of the PCB.