

As stated in the manual, these repeaters are factory aligned and calibrated at the time of manufacture. They are designed to retain calibration for the useful life of the product. There is no field tune up or alignment necessary.