

Response to TCB Findings

Please provide a generic description of the device.

The Rosemount 753 Wireless Network Transmitter provides a cost effective means to monitor process variables and diagnostics with minimal line of sight concerns due to each device also acting as a data repeater. The detailed description of RF functions can be found in the operational description.