

The subjective device is wireless ethernet access point and constructed by mainboard (cpu, clock oscillator, switching power supply, PCMCIA interface, ethernet interface) and PCMCIA wireless lan card replace the microstrip antenna by extension cable and two monodipole antenna permanently fixed on the enclosure) and external com port for initial IP setting.