

Regarding TCB Question on 2.925(d), the manufacturer declares the following:

The Daikin1p unit is installed onto a baseplate which powers up the unit. The baseplate does not come attached. The baseplate must be installed/wired first before the unit can be powered up. It would be impossible to install/power the unit without attaching/detaching the baseplate and exposing the FCC/IC ID labeling.