

MYF-XI-325
Professional Instalaton Kit
Operational Description

The HA-XI-325 Professional Installation Kit is designed for Professional Installation in a Hyperlink Enterprise-Class Router for use by Service Providers. It is designed only for industrial and commercial use. It is not designed for, nor intended to be installed in a notebook computer. Operation of this system is not simple plug-and-play since it is a relatively complex system. In addition to requiring training and experience installing RF equipment, advanced training and knowledge is required to properly configure this type of advanced Router. All settings are protected by password to prevent access to anyone other than the Professional Installer.

The sale and installation of this system is to be controlled since it will be offered exclusively to Dealers and Service Providers who employ Professional Installers. It is not our intention to market this system to the general public or through normal resale channels. The System will not be offered for sale to the general public on a website or through mail-order.

What's Included: The System consists of the PC Card, Amplifier Kit and Antenna.
