

Label location statement

1. The battery cover should be called Lower Case, please see the following figure as stated:

The purpose of the Middle Case is used to fix the battery box and the PCB, and the Lower Case is the last action for assembling the units.

It's become a complete product once all the components assembled together.

2. If the label stick in the Middle Case area, the label will block the buzzer & reset key (please see the following figure)

3. So that label position as below stated is the most appropriate.
