

Mains conducted emissions

The A25a and A36 AirSynergy variants use the same:

- External mains-dc power supply
- Main baseband printed circuit board
- Same frequency determining circuitry.

The only differences are that final Printed Circuit board Assemblies (PCA) contain different RF filter components to reflect operation at different frequencies.

Mains conducted emissions measurements performed on A25a variant are therefore representative of those for A36 variant

Please see report SC_TR_87_B_extract