Hi Kathy:

Question: In your response to item 2 (body worn) is confusing. The manual shows a wrist strap or lanyard. Can this strap be fit around the neck so the device can be worn next to the body?

Response: The wrist strap is about 15cm (about 6in) long (doubled) or about 30cm around (length of the string). This is too small to fit over someone's head.

Question: The manual also shows data via the I/O data cable. Can an external earpiece and microphone be fit to the device via its I/O data cable to allow communication while on the body?

Response: The Data I/O cable is used for synchronizing the phone book to a PC application, not for connecting to anything to transmit data. The phone book download/upload to a PC is done when the phone is idle. It does not transmit at all during this process.

Hi Dennis - just checking in to see how things are going.
Is Taiwan what you expected?

I wanted to let you know that we've got several M/A-Com and EF Johnson applications coming in before the end of the year, due to some rule changes they need approvals before year's end. I don't mean to pry, but will you be working any days between Christmas and New Year's? I understand you've got a "road trip" planned sometime before Christmas - I hope you have a wonderful time!

Thank you.
Kathy
