RE: Pelican Accessories
FCC ID: O7X-G3-1

1) The parts list provided does not reference a different manufacturer. Please update the BOM to reference the OEM manufacturer. FYI. The BOM is uploaded to the FCC site, but is listed as confidential. Therefore only the FCC is capable of viewing the file once it has been uploaded.

R. The identification of the manufacturer for the radio module has been added to the BOM. Please see exhibit "Revised BOM - CUBE RF Pad Host K9993.pdf".

2) Since this device contains a RX and digital device, the users manual should also include the information specified by 15.105.

R. As required for the certification, the statement of 15.19(3) has been included in the User's Manual to warn the user of interference. Previous devices of this nature have not required the additional statement of 15.105, however, the client has been notified to add this statement to future manuals.

3) Please confirm that digital device and RX portion of this product have been approved under a DoC authorization as shown on the labeling information.

R. The RX and digital portions of the device have been tested and approved under the DoC process.

4) The Game Cube host transceiver does not appear to be referenced on the 731 form. Has this portion of the system been granted? Please note that the FCC expects both devices as part of a system to be submitted within 5 days of each other.

R. The application for the host is currently with ATCB for review.
