Re: Revised confidentiality request

To whom it may concern,

Handspring would like to amend its previous confidentiality request that was submitted with this certification application dated 13 July 2001 (O8FNYNY) to include all parts lists and an additional two documents listed below. Thus, Handspring requests that the following documents contained in this Part 24 certification application be withheld from public disclosure.

All schematic diagrams

All electrical block diagrams

All theory of operations

All parts lists (Specifically "parts_list_shea_1900_main_PCB.pdf" and "parts_list_manhattan_1900_main_PCB.pdf")

The document entitled: "product_development_guide.pdf"

The document entitled: "wismo3_specs.pdf" (GSM RF module specs)

The handspring letter requesting initial deferral of the grant

Handspring feels that allowing the above documents to become public could be detrimental to its business by permitting its competitors to have access to information that would not normally be released to the public.

Handspring would also like to request that some of the photographs that were submitted with the original certification application be superceded with newer, more up-to-date items that have been uploaded with this letter. Specifically:

Supercede the photo(s) "M_assy360.jpg" and/or "M_assy_72.jpg" with "M_assy_new.jpg"

Handspring would like to request that the FCC grant the above referenced certification application contingent on the FCC being able to accommodate the requests above.

Handspring also certifies that no party to this application is subject to denial of benefits, including FCC benefits, pursuant to section 5301 of the anti-drug abuse act of 1988, 21 U.S.C 853(a)
