Michael,

I have reviewed the above referenced application and find that the following items need to be addressed before this review can be completed.

There does not seem to be any statement about what has changed to allow the HAC capability to be included into this handset. Were any components/circuitry added in this Class II application that would warrant updated schematics, updated internal photographs and additional SAR testing? If yes, please provide the additional documentation as necessary.

[Danielle] Client confirmed that no changes have been made or required on the handset submitted for HAC tests. The phone is identical in mechanical, hardware and software compare to the original granted version.

Best regards,
