

BST801 Operational Description

The BST801 is used for increasing the signal of mobile radio's. In essence it is a bi-directional amplifier. The mobile radio is connected directly to the input side of the device by means of cable and co-ax connector. The output of the device is connected directly to an outdoor antenna. The result is an improved range for the mobile radio device. The device is powered by a 12V DC source.