

Description: Accele Electronics, Inc. RF Transmitter- FCC ID: "OXEKETX"

This RF transmitter is designed to operate only when a button is pressed. The operation will super impose a digital data stream on to a 302uHz RF carrier. This data stream includes identification and a button set if bits. This transmitter is the principal communication device between the operator and the electronic receiver. This pre-wired control of selected parts of the automobile maybe activated remotely. Pressing button one will lock doors and inhibit starter. Pressing button two will unlock doors and allow the automobile to start.