

RF Receiver Description of Operation

The RF Receiver accepts RF signals from a transmitter, demodulates the messages from these signals, and transmits the messages to the body control module via a dedicated serial link.