Clarification for PX120N USB Interface

To whom it may concern,

PX120N model is a Non-Data service model based on current chipset platform.
About PX120N's USB Interface, it's only used to do after service maintenance by engineers, and has NO other function with regard to end user.
data exchange with a computer is only possible with special software or hardware by service engineer. There is no USB data exchange, if the end user connect a PC to the device.

Sincerely yours,

David Kim
