Hi Steven,

Q#1: According to Part 2.1033, a block diagram shall include frequency of all oscillators in the device.

Ans: Please see the revised block diagram as the attachment.

Q#2: The operational description provided is FM transmitter module specification only. Please provide a specific operating description regarding this device.

Ans: Please see the revised operational description as the attachment.

Q#3: Since this GPS is capable of connecting with PC via USB cable that is also classified as a PC peripheral but there are no FCC DOC logo found in the label. If you're seeking to follow FCC certificaiton rule, then please submit another application as a composite device or add the FCC DOC logo onto the label if FCC Part 15B was well complied Ans: Please see the revised Label Sample as the attachment.

Q#4: Please provide a statement issued by client to demonstrate that all modification did in this device were approved by them and will be implemented to the production line.

Ans: Please see the DoC letter as the attachment.

Q#5: There are no information mentioned about FM transmitter function nor how to operate it in the user manual. Please address.

Ans: Please see the revised user manual as the attachment.

Q#6: As indicated in page 10 of user manual, a FM antenna is applied but not available but as indicated in test setup photo and page 11 of the test report, a FM external was connected during the test. Please address and also please provide its antenna specification.

Ans: Please see the revised user manual as the attachment.

FYI: Please point out the location of FM transmitter and its internal antenna.

Ans: Please see page 8 of the internal photo-1 and page 5 of the internal photo-2 as the attachment.

Best Regards,

Lucy Tsai
