Operation Description

This device is Internet Phone.

It's connected to personal computer via Serial connector.

It's excellent compatibility to other devices according to H.323 international standard protocol, easy to use just after login and need not external power supply.