| Description | <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. The circuit design and the components (including IC chips) used are completely the same for those two models.2. Because of the requirement in the market, the four button model has one more function. That is "trunk open" function as blue button shows.3. The functions for those two models are operated by the same chips. We can put three or four buttons in the same circuit board without change any component or circuit design. | |

Sincerely Yours,
