

To Whom It May Concern:

Our Keyfob is a handheld device with an easily removable battery door. The customer is alerted to the location of the FCC ID in the user manual.

LABEL LOCATION:

The available label area on the device is limited because it is relatively small and has many contoured surfaces with 2 large keypads.

The battery is designed for easy removal and the label will be visible whenever the battery is removed for replacement.

The FCC identifier will be readily viewable at the time of the purchase to comply with Part 2.925 because the user manual clearly states that the FCC id can be found on and inside the battery door.

Regards,

Jeffrey Perkins, PE

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Jeff Perkins", is displayed within a light gray rectangular box.

CTO
Lasershield Systems, Inc.