

FDDI Conversion Sales and Installation Notice

Marketing

This device is not to be sold to the general public. It is to be sold to dealers who have strict marketing control.

Application

The application of this radio is generally for commercial use and not for use by the general public.

Installation

This device requires professional installation. The radios are designed for long distance, point to point communication. They are normally put on towers or monopoles that require licensed, trained installers. It is paramount that each installation is properly controlled. The radios may require specialized path alignment devices to insure optimized operation by installers who have been properly trained. Professional installers are trained to use specialized equipment to make certain that there are no RF leaks in the mounting of the radios. If you have any questions on the qualifications necessary to install the system, please contact us at (918) 584-2007.
