

Changes or modifications not expressly approved by the party responsible for compliance could void the user's authority to operate the equipment