

Response to TCB Findings

Please explain the reason for professional installation requirement.

Response:

Even though the actual installation process seems simple, the simplicity of the installation is due to the fact that personnel involved in the installation process are required through Siemens to have training on the product and its installation. Secondly, the installation is performed in conjunction with a proprietary wired network that can only be serviced by an authorized technician. Third, the radio device is not sold into general distribution or through dealers, its distribution is limited to local Siemens branch offices responsible for the installation and maintenance of their specialized building automation equipment.
