

align to the top of the key buttons

The diagram shows the back of a device with a keyboard and a central display area. A red dashed line is drawn across the middle of the device, indicating the alignment point for the key buttons. The text 'align to the top of the key buttons' is written above the line. The diagram also shows the internal layout of the keyboard, including the keys and the keyboard frame. The central display area is labeled 'RECOVERY CHANNEL™'.
