

Label and adhesive is made of industry standard material designed to stay permanently on the device during its expected lifetime.