A photograph of a wooden workbench or table. On the table, a silver laptop is open, displaying a blue desktop background with a window. To the left of the laptop, there are several power adapters and cables plugged into a power strip. In front of the laptop, there are several thin wooden strips laid out horizontally, with white tape or labels attached to them. To the right of the laptop, there are more electronic components, including a small blue circuit board and a black cable. The background is a plain, light-colored wall.
