Re: Surrender of International Section 214 Authorizations

Dear Ms. Dortch:

In order to reduce unnecessary recordkeeping by both the FCC and AT&T, AT&T is reviewing its files to identify and surrender international Section 214 authorizations that are no longer required to provide service. The ability to surrender the following international Section 214 authorizations is the result of streamlining changes in Commission rules after those individual authorizations were granted (e.g., to allow global international Section 214 authority), or the result of previously-notified retirements of associated facilities.¹ In no instance does the surrender of the following international Section 214 authorizations impact the ability to provide existing services or facilities to customers.

As the result of this review, AT&T provides notification of the surrender of the following international Section 214 authorizations by the AT&T affiliates listed as grantees for each authorization.

AT&T Corp.	ITC-214-19931020-00283 (Previous File No.: ITC-93-268)	Authorization to acquire capacity in the RIOJA Cable System for use in providing authorized services between Spain, the United Kingdom, Belgium and the Netherlands.
AT&T Corp.	ITC-214-19931020-00284 (Previous File No.: ITC-93-271)	Authorization to acquire and operate capacity in the R-J-K Cable System between Russia, Japan and Korea for use in providing authorized services.

¹ See, e.g., Streamlining the International Section 214 Authorization Process and Tariff Requirements, 11 FCC Rcd. 12884 (1996) (providing for global international Section 214 authority to use all previously and subsequently authorized common carrier and non-common carrier facilities and foreign connecting facilities); 1998 Biennial Review – Review of International Common Carrier Regulations, 14 FCC Rcd. 4909 (1999) (allowing any authorized facilities-based carrier to use any non-U.S.-licensed undersea cable system without specific approval); International Settlements Policy Reform, 27 FCC Rcd. 15521 (2012) (removing the International Settlements Policy from the U.S. international routes to which it continued to apply, except for the U.S.-Cuba route).

AT&T Corp.	ITC-214-19931020-00285 (Previous File No.: ITC-93-272)	Authorization to acquire and operate capacity in the Malaysia- Thailand Cable System for use in providing authorized services between the Malaysia and Thailand.
