

We are using a third-party switching platform based in New York to re-sell long distance calling services to distributors and/or online re-sellers to ethnic communities in the United States.

We have no direct relationships with international carriers and will be buying services from aggregators or re-sellers based in the United States.

We don't have telecom switching equipment and will be using a third-party service to originate and terminate all calls.