Answer to Question 13

On May 1, 2017, Axtel was merged with its subsidiary Alestra, forming a single entity with the sole purpose of simplifying Axtel's corporate structure.

As a result, Alestra ceased to exist while Axtel absorbed all of Alestra's operations and services in the IT and Telecom market and assumed all of Alestra's obligations, rights, assets and liabilities. Axtel will continue to use both the Axtel and Alestra brands.
