Answer to Question 12

Section 63.18(h): The assignee shall also identify any interlocking directorates with a foreign carrier.

DISH has no interlocking directorates with a foreign carrier.

Answer to Question 13

On June 14, 2022, DISH signed an agreement under which, among other things, DISH will acquire from T-Mobile a certain subset of prepaid customers (the "Transaction"). These customers (the "Customers") are owned by T-Mobile, but serviced by DISH under the Boost Mobile brand pursuant to a Reverse Transition Services Agreement between the Parties, dated July 1, 2020.[5] These are customers that were not able to be assigned as part of the previously approved assignment of Boost Mobile customers to DISH, including customers acquired from former Sprint affiliates (e.g., Shentel Communications, LLC) when those relationships were unwound.

The Parties now seek to assign the Customers to DISH. As a result of the Transaction, which has been approved by the United States Department of Justice, DISH will become the [5] The Reverse Transition Services Agreement is part of overall agreement between DISH, T-Mobile and Sprint. On July 26, 2019, T-Mobile, Sprint Corporation, and DISH Network Corporation executed an Asset Purchase Agreement whereby DISH acquired from T-Mobile the assets (including customers) primarily used by the Boost Mobile, Virgin Mobile and Sprint-branded prepaid wireless businesses. That transaction was required as a condition of the Department of Justice's approval of the merger of T-Mobile and Sprint. See U.S. v. Deutsche Telekom AG, T-Mobile US, Inc., Softbank Group Corp., and Sprint Corporation, Stipulation and Order, Case 1:19-cv-02232, Document 2-1 (D.D.C 2019); *U.S. v. telecommunications service provider to the Customers.

The note to section 63.24(b) of the Commission's rules (47 C.F.R. § 63.24(b) note) provides: "[t]he sale of a customer base, or a portion of a customer base, by a carrier to another carrier, is a sale of assets and shall be treated as an assignment, which requires prior Commission approval under this section." Therefore, the Applicants are filing this Application in compliance with section 63.24(b) to seek the Commission's approval for the assignment of the Customers to DISH.

Assignor is not assigning any of its international Section 214 authorizations to Assignee as part of the Transaction and will retain its International Section 214 File Numbers after consummation of the Transaction (File Number ITC-214-20150512-00122). Effective as of the date the Transaction is completed, Assignee requests that the partially assigned authority be incorporated into DISH's existing international Section 214 authorization.
