Answer to Questions 16 and 25

CCI was converted to a limited liability company on August 14, 2026. As previously disclosed to and approved by the Commission, the conversion was undertaken in the ordinary course as part of a larger transaction involving the transfer of control of CCI and its subsidiaries to Charter.[7] Changes in the corporate form of a licensee are presumptively classified as pro forma.[8] In this case, the conversion of CCI is in the public interest because it was a part of and facilitated Charter's acquisition of CCI and its subsidiaries.[9]

Together with all previous pro forma transactions, the conversion of CCI to a limited liability company did not result in a change in ultimate control of CCLLC because immediately after the conversion, CCLLC remained under control of Cox Enterprises, Inc. ("CEI"). Shortly thereafter, control of CCLLC was transferred from CEI to Charter, as approved by the Commission.

[6] The Cox Family Voting Trust, which controls 100% of the voting stock of CEI, is controlled by three trustees: Sanford H. Schwartz, James C. Kennedy, and Alex C. Taylor, each of whom is a U.S. citizen. The equity interests in CEI are owned by multiple individuals and trusts. Post-consummation, no individual or entity, either through ownership or beneficial interest in trust, will hold a direct or indirect interest in CEI that would result in a 10% or greater equity interest in Charter.

[7] See Charter-Cox TOC Approval at ¶ 5 n.16 (2026).

[8] 47 C.F.R. § 64.24(d), Note 2 (stating that an a "[c]orporate reorganization that involves no substantial change in the beneficial ownership of the corporation (including… change in form of the business entity)" is presumptively pro forma).

[9] See 1998 Biennial Review – Review of International Common Carrier Regulations, Report and Order, 14 FCC Rcd 4909 ¶ 42 (1999) (finding that "[r]egulatory review of [pro forma] transactions yields no significant public interest benefits, but may delay or hinder transactions that could provide substantial financial, operational, or administrative benefits for carriers").
