| Consistent with the new 43.62 Reporting Manual, this report includes all Gbps circuits to countries where FTLD is regulated as "dominant". Internet circuits are excluded because it is not a service between two countries, but rather access to the Internet backbone for service worldwide. |          |                             |                   |                    |
