Answers to Questions 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18

Jane R. Eudy, the Personal Representative of the Estate of Patrick L. Eudy, hereby notifies the Commission of the involuntary transfer of control of the following ultimately wholly-owned subsidiaries of American Broadband Communications, LLC (“American Broadband”) and Dialog Telecom LLC (“Dialog”) that hold International Section 214 Authorizations for global resale: Cameron Communications, LLC (ITC-214-20100317-00105); TelAlaska Long Distance (ITC-214-19960826-00405); HunTel CableVision d/b/a/ HunTel (ITC-214-20001025-00632); KLM Long Distance (ITC-214-20000627-00398); Holway Long Distance (ITC-214-20000627-00399); and AMA Communications, LLC (ITC-214-19980622-00430). The involuntary transfer is taking place because Patrick L. Eudy, who owned 100 percent of American Broadband and 68.63 percent of Dialog, was killed in the crash of his private airplane on June 20, 2013. Jane R. Eudy, the former wife of Patrick L. Eudy and the mother of their four minor children, was appointed the personal representative of Mr. Eudy’s estate on June 27, 2013.

It is not absolutely clear to Jane R. Eudy and her counsel whether this involuntary transfer of control constitutes a pro forma transfer of control (for which no filing fee is required) or a full-fledged transfer of control (for which a filing fee is required). Section 63.24(g) of the Commission’s Rules treats involuntary transfers the same as pro forma transfers with respect to scheduling and processing procedures, but does not expressly state whether or not they constitute pro forma transfers. With the death of Patrick L. Eudy, the ownership and control of his majority stock interests in American Broadband and Dialog have passed to his Estate, and not to any other individual or entity. Jane R. Eudy, as the Personal Representative for his Estate, has the authority and ability to continue the present operations of American Broadband, Dialog and their subsidiaries, to authorize payment of their financial obligations and to take other actions to preserve the existence and viability of the companies. However, Jane R. Eudy’s authority is plainly limited in time (until the probate process is completed) and in scope (to preserve the value of American Broadband, Dialog and their subsidiaries until their stock is ultimately distributed in accordance with Mr. Eudy’s will); she does not have unfettered authority during the probate process to make wholesale changes unless they are needed to conserve the existence and value of the companies. Reading Note 1 to Section 63.24(d) of the Commission’s Rules, a reasonable person can find reasons and factual considerations both for and against classifying the present involuntary transfer of control as a pro forma transfer.

Upon consideration of the foregoing paragraph, Jane R. Eudy has determined that there is reasonable and sufficient basis to make this filing as a notice of pro forma transfer of control. Once probate of Mr. Eudy’s Estate is completed, the Commission and its International Bureau will have the opportunity to pass upon the ultimate owners of American Broadband, Dialog and their subsidiaries that hold International Section 214 Authorizations. If the Commission or its International Bureau determines that the subject transfer is not pro forma and that a filing fee is required, Jane R. Eudy will comply.

Answer to Question 12

Neither American Broadband nor Cameron nor TelAlaska nor HunTel nor KLM nor Holway nor Dialog nor AMA has any interlocking directorates with a foreign carrier.

Answer to Question 13

The reported involuntary transfer of control resulted from the accidental death in a private airplane crash of Patrick L. Eudy, who owned 100 percent of American Broadband and 68.63 percent of Dialog. Mr. Eudy's shares of American Broadband and Dialog are presently in his Estate. While that Estate is in probate, Jane R. Eudy, who has been appointed the Personal Representative of Mr. Eudy's Estate, will vote his shares in American Broadband and Dialog and take other actions deemed necessary and appropriate to preserve the value of that Estate until it can be distributed in accordance with Mr. Eudy's will.

Answer to Questions 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18
