Answer to Question 13

Means by which the pro forma transfer of control has taken place

Effective August 31, 2016, Annex Holdings HC LLC (“Annex”) and Rubik Acquisition Company, LLC (“Rubik”) were dissolved, resulting in the elimination of Annex and Rubik as intermediate holding companies in West Telecom Services, LLC’s (“West Telecom”) chain of ownership. Other than the change of its equity owners from Annex and Rubik to West Corporation (“West”), West Telecom’s direct parent, West Telecom Services Holdings, LLC (“West Telecom Holdings”), did not change as a result of this internal reorganization and neither did West Telecom’s ultimate parent, West.

Prior to the pro forma elimination of Rubik and Annex, West Telecom was a direct, wholly-owned subsidiary of West Telecom Holdings, which was 74% owned by Rubik and 26% owned by Annex, both Delaware limited liability companies. Annex, in turn, was wholly-owned by Rubik, which was wholly-owned by West. Now, as a result of the internal reorganization, West Telecom Holdings is a direct, rather than an indirect, wholly-owned subsidiary of West while West Telecom remains a direct, wholly-owned subsidiary of West Telecom Holdings. Since the ultimate ownership of West Telecom did not change, this intra-company reorganization was pro forma in nature.
